MAY HAVE MEET FOR RURAL SCHOOL

COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE BOARD CONVENTION TUESDAY

VISITING FOR TEACHERS

Plan Made to Have Them Spend One Day a Year in School Room of Another District

Representatives from the rural schools in Nodaway County may have the opportunity to hold a field meet in the College park this fall if plans which were begun at the School board Convention, held in the auditorium of the Central High School building yesterday afternoon, are followed out.

A committee was appointed to meet with Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers' College, to talk over the advisability of having a field meet for the rural schools.

The convention yesterday afternoon took favorable action on the plan which was presented by Miss Fannie Hope for having a visitation day for the teachers in the schools. It is the plan for the teachers to be allowed one day each year when they will visit other schools for the benefit of observation. The visit will be under the direction of Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, who will designate the day for the individual teachers visit, the school they should visit and what to look for during their visit. The convention yesterday afternoon agreed to take this matter up with their local boards and to try and get favorable action on it.

Miss Hope spoke of the value of supervision for rural schools and recommended that demonstration zones be established in the county with supervisors over each. She mentioned the observation method as one phase of training teachers.

Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College, outlined the qualities of a good teacher and discussed the origin and evolution of the system of the school board convention. These conventions originated When Mr. Lamkin was in the State Dept. of Education under Howard A. Gass, state superintendent of schools. He said that the purpose of the conventions at that time was for the members of the school boards to get together for the purpose of exchanging ideas and experiences and not for the purpose of calling in educators to address the conventions .He told the school board members that the College would be glad to cooperate with them for the best interests of the schools.

Roy A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, reviewed his plan for the boys and girls pig club work which is, to have local clubs in the consolidated schools and high schools instead of having a county wide organization with the show in Maryville. The local pig club shows at the schools are to be held in connection with corn shows or school fairs. The work with the baby beef club will continue this year as a county wide club until it has an enrollment large enough to make it interesting as a community affair.

Dr. Claude P. Fryer, county health officer in reviewing the work of health and education said that the lessons of hygiene are carried to the child's home and are applied as a matter of course in the homes of the future citizens. One of the duties of the school is to touch at all times, cleanliness of person and clothing. The examples of cleanliness of the school grounds and the school rooms have their influence on the students. The color of the walls should be such as to absorb the least light and prove the least taxing to the eyes.

He said that many of the schools in the county have complied with the regulations of the state board of health concerning the installing of sanitary toilets, which is one of the most important parts of sanitary equipment.

The reports of the improvements in the schools of the county, which was conducted by Dr. Ferguson of Elmo showed that there was decidedly more improvement this year than there has been in the past. The Elmo consolidated school has built a new building at Possum Walk and has painted the buildings both inside and out. The improvement in the schools have been along the lines of new buildings, new wells and coverings, cleaning up the grounds and the installing of heating and ventilating systems.

The boundaries of the territories of the different school buildings are the same that they were last year.

Pupils entering from another school are asked to bring with them their grade cards when they come Monday morning.

SENIORS ENROLLING AT M. H. S. TODAY

WANT LARGE PERCENTAGE TO SIGN UP THIS WEEK

IN GRADES SEPTEMBER 4

Children Who Will Be Six Years Old By Middle of November Can Start Monday

Fifty-six members of the senior class for this winter at the Maryville High School signed up this morning and others are signing this afternoon. It was hoped that a large percentage of the seniors could be signed up today and it is hoped that as large a number as possible of the members of the other classes will be signed up during the next two days. L. E. Ziegler, superintendent, says that the signing up of a large number of the high school students this week will make the opening days of school much easier for both students and teachers, since it will eliminate congestion at that time. He is urging the students to enroll now.

Following are the seniors who enrolled up to press time: Robert Mountjoy, Olivette Barrow, Hope Moore, Loretta Jones, Harold O'Banion, Richard Baker, Alyce Allen, Margaret McMurry, Myrle Lyle, Dorothy England, Mattie Wyatt, Marion Gile, Lorena Gault, Thelma Hunter, Joseph Graves, Forrest Martin, Floyd Cook, LeRoy Jones, Louise Peery, Margaret Louise Hosmer, Mary Crawford, Mildred Bailey, Roberta Cook and Conrad Blackman.

Tomorrow is the day that the juniors are requested to go to the school building to sign up and on Friday the freshmen are requested to go.

No enrolling will be done in the grades until the opening day, which will be Monday, September 4.

Mr. Ziegler said this morning that there has been considerable inquiry as to starting children who are not yet six years of age to school. He says that if the child will be six years old by the middle of November the parents will be permitted to start him at the opening of school. The children must be enrolled by not later than the second week of school as no new classes can be started for them.

2 1-2 IN. PASSAGE FOR CITY WATER

THIS SMALL OPENING GIVES MARYVILLE ENTIRE SUPPLY

FORMERLY EIGHT INCHES

Standpipe Full Supplied Needs but Two Hours Last Thursday—Concreting Meter Pit

All the water for the city of Maryville is passing through a 2½ inch hole in the new meter that has been installed on the mains just west of the pumping station at the One Hundred and Two River. The meter was placed where a section of the 8-inch main had been taken out and the question is how the 2½ inch passage is carrying all the water that the 8-inch pipe did.

As a pipe is decreased in size, resistance is increased and speed of flow increased. Mayor Robinson said this morning that with the placing of the new meter he feared that the pumps would be worked harder in forcing the water through the mains and that it would be a greater strain on them. But he says that since the meter has been placed he cannot tell that there has been any change in the strain on the pumps.

An enormous amount of water is used by the city of Maryville at this season of the year. If for any reason the pumps at the river are stopped it is only a short time until the water supply is low. With the standpipe filled the pumps at the river were turned off at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning when the main was cut at the pumping station for the placing of the new meter. By noon that day the standpipe was empty. The supply lasted but two hours. It happened that in this two hours the Wabash railway filled two or three locomotive tender tanks and the ice plant and electric light plant, heavy water consumers, were running. The Burlington railway does not get much water here for its engines, since it fills most of them at the tank at Bridgewater.

On the day that the meter was being placed the pumps from the firewells were started as soon as the supply in the standpipe was exhausted. By evening the supply in the wells was half exhausted and these pumps were stopped, since it would have been a hazzard to pump more from them since a fire might have broken out.

Some of the parts of the meter did not fit just as they should and held up the installing. For this reason it was necessary for the mayor and a force of men to keep on the job until 3 o'clock Friday morning to get the meter in. If the meter had not been in by the time the people got up Friday morning many of them would have been without water in their homes.

Lumber and other materials were being taken today to the river for the purpose of building forms to concrete the inside of the pit in which the meter is placed, so as to keep out the surface water and to keep the meter from freezing in the cold weather.

John F. Dowden, Ray Taylor and J. C. Chestnut—E. C. Gooden on Committee.

The convention of the Missouri Farmers' Association in session at St. Joseph, voted Tuesday night to refuse the proposition of consolidation offered to the association by the directors of the Missouri Farm Bureau federation. Instead, the Missouri Farmers' Association invited all farm bureau members to join the organization. The vote was unanimous.

It finances and controls 312 produce exchanges, 9 cold storage plants and 320 live stock shipping associations. The state association is a member of the Farmers' National Co-operative Exchange.

Approximately 2,000,000 bushels of wheat were shipped last year, and 13,000 cars of live stock, and more live stock is being shipped this year than last. The membership shipped approximately $8,000,000 worth of poultry and eggs in 1921, and is sending out more in 1922.

The association secured 6 per cent farm loans lowering the rates in Missouri. It is a member of the Farmers' National Co-operative Live Stock Marketing Association, helped to secure the passage of laws opening grain and live stock exchanges in Missouri, and is connected with the "Co-op" Live Stock Commission Company in St. Joseph, Kansas City and Chicago.

The aggregate capital of the organizations of the association is $7,000,000, and the aggregate profits in 1921 were $600,000. There is a reserve and surplus of $297,000, and over 66,000 shareholders. The turnovers in 1921 amounted to $77,137,603.

THE BOOTLEGGING TRADE.

All over the country a vast machine is being built up for the distribution of liquor illegally. However, one may feel about the 18th amendment, here is a development that all good citizens ought to view with repugnance.

A multitude of people are getting rich by a profitable trade in harmful and illegal liquor, and many who call themselves good citizens, connive at and enjoy the results of this crooked game.

Millions of people must reach the conclusion that laws are not intended seriously, that it is a harmless thing to break them, that if you can evade them and not get found out, you are entitled to brag about it, as an exploit in which you can take justifiable pride.

The folks who are gaining that impression will not stop with the breaking of this particular statute. They will be encouraged to think that all laws have no binding quality, that any citizen is free to break any of them. Our government is built upon respect for law. With millions of people losing this regard for authority, and disobeying it so far as the ydare, a canker of decay is introduced into the heart of American institutions.

Those who violate this statute so lightly, will ultimately lament because their rights are ignored by the lawlessness of people in other directions who have been swayed by their pernicious example.

The people who connive at these violations of the law are playing with fire. Every time they patronize a bootlegger, they not merely run serious risks of injury to health and possibly fatal results, but they help break down the noble government that was built by the sacrifice of the fathers, the security and efficiency of which are necessary for the peace and well being of every citizen.

The fellow who is content to drift through life generally makes a poor landing.

When a man runs after a girl that doesn't appreciate him, he presents a good example of misdirected energy.

The daily average consumption of gasoline in the United States has increased 69 per cent in five years. During the first quarter of 1918, the average daily consumption was 7,083,000 gallons. During the first quarter of 1922 it was 11,883,000 gallons.

An unusual and unique process of removal is now going on in the state of Michigan. The little town of Jennings, with its one thousand inhabitants, is being moved, lock, stock and barrel to the city of Cadillac, twelve miles distant. The town of Jennings was once a flourishing lumber town, but, with the forests cut away for miles around, it is left without an industry. The removal is made possible by the development of the motor truck. The houses are being moved by means of a gigantic motor truck and trailer built for the purpose. The trailer is 24 feet wide by 42 feet long.

FATALITY EACH 6 MINUTES.

The 1920 Accident Toll in the United States Reached 76,000.

Detroit, Aug. 30.—Careless America's toll of accidental deaths in 1920 was 76,000, a life every six minutes, according to a report of the National Safety Council at the eleventh annual safety congress here yesterday.

While the 1920 toll from all public and industrial accidents was a decrease of 3,300 from 1911, the beginning of the decade, the balance on the credit side of the 1920 ledger was only 400 above the 1919 figures.

Motor car accidents were held responsible largely for the unfavorable experience of 1920. In that year there were 1,200 more deaths from that cause than in 1919. Thirty deaths a day, a total of 11,000, was the record of motor vehicle fatalities in 1920. Reports now available indicate an increase in 1921. General traffic accidents in 1921 are expected to show a 5 per cent decrease, the report stated.

People died from falling accidents of all kinds at the rate of 34 a day in 1920. Burns claimed 22 a day, a total for the year of 8,088 and an increase of 215 over 1919. Other major causes of accidental deaths were:

Railroad accidents, 7,769; drowning, 6,066; gas, 3,618; fire arms, 2,767; mine accidents, 2,660; machinery, 2,660; street cars, 2,128; other vehicles, 2,022; conflagrations, 1,277.

Deaths from crushings, poisons, sharp instruments, heat, cold, injuries by animals, lightning and electricty, were among the general causes.

Accidents in industry showed a decline of 1.3 deaths per 100,000 population for each year of the 10-year period, while public accidents decreased 1.1 per cent.

In round numbers, 55,000 men and 21,000 women were killed in accidents in 1920.

POLITICAL OBSERVATIONS

(From St. Joseph News-Press)

Says the Boston Transcript, administration organ: "It would be calamitous to the country to have this "do nothing" congress returned to power unchastened, and it would be still more calamitous to the Republican party. The party can be forgiven for electing such a congress by unexpected chance, in the greatest and most indiscriminate 'landslide' in our political history. It could not be forgiven for deliberately re-electing it." The Transcript goes on to say that if under the administration of President Harding, "and therefore more or less under his influence and leadership, another such congress as this should be imposed upon the country, he would do well to look for a new occupation, or for a return to his former occupation, after March 4, 1925."

"Beer and light wines now, but no saloons ever" is the main plank in the platform of the Association Against Prohibition in New York State, and it is evident that the movement to restore beer and light wines through a modification of the Volstead act will be a major issue in this year's campaign in that state. In every congressional district there will be a "wet" candidate. A novel feature of the work of the Association Prohibition is the organization of a "Molly Pitcher" club of women to aid the movement for modification of the Volstead act, and many of the prominent women of the state have enrolled as members.

Rumors of a break in President Harding's cabinet are in circulation again. These rumors are to the effect that William R. Day, associate justice of the supreme court, is about to resign from the bench and that either Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state, or Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, will be named as Justice Day's successor. The rumors are also to the effect that if Fall should be named for the bench his place as secretary of the interior would be given to Senator Harry S. New, who was defeated for nomination in the Indiana primary.

Among the probabilities is a Democratic senator from Iowa. In the recent primary the Republican nomination was won by Col. Smith W. Brookhart, who is accused of being "a Socialist, a demagogue and no Republican," and of whom Senator Cummins said: "If his powers were commensurate with his desires, our government would not last a fortnight." It is the opinion of Iowa politicians that Cummins and the Old Guard Republicans will not support Brookhart and that as a consequence Clydell Herring, Brookhart's Democratic opponent, will be elected.

Should Earle B. Mayfield, who has been nominated for senator in Texas, be elected, and presumably he will be, he may be compelled to run the gauntlet of senatorial investigation on the basis of his Ku-Klux connection. It has been repeatedly charged that Mayfield is a member of the klan and as such has taken an oath which will preclude the one required as United States senator.

ADVERTISING A FARM SALE

Jewell Mayes, Secretary of Agriculture, Gives Some Suggestions

The farmer who is going to hold a general sale or a public auction of pure bred livestock needs to spend more for advertising than does the merchants for the same total amount of sales. There are at least two good reasons why.

The first "why" is that the farmer must sell his offerings all in one day, while the merchant has many days in which to find a buyer.

The second "why" is that the farmer must bring people to his farm who are not in the habit of coming there while the merchant's customers are mainly those who already come to his store more or less regularly.

The farmer who tries to hold a general sale or a purebred livestock auction without having conducted a systematic advertising campaign in proportion to the total value of his offerings is recklessly inviting needless losses.

The "pulling" value of newspaper advertising is so well recognized that it is absolutely needless to argue in its behalf. In relation to farm sales it is signally valuable bringing in new bidders who come from beyond the neighborhood after the "stuff" that they have heard of being for sale at the stated place and date.

The "dodger" or handbill formerly was of important service, yet too local in circulation, as this sort of publicity was too generally read by those who already knew of the sale and its offerings. The handbill or poster was really readable on a tree or crossroads post in the good old days of horseback and wagon but the "tin-lizzie" now whizzes by without permitting you seeing anything more than a white streak. The dodger today is a dead one when compared to the newspaper "ad" read by hundreds of thousands.

A page or a quarter page advertisement is always a bidder-bringer and a price-booster and if it is an important farm or stock sale of considerable total advertising should run through a larger number of issues than has been the common practice in the past.

Starting your advertising a little sooner tends to hold other sales off your date as well as developing your scope of interest and number of bidders.

Advertising rightly planned is not an "expense"—it is an investment that doubles itself many times over on the sale day—Jewell Mayes, Secretary State Board of Agriculture.

THE differences in value between standard cord tires sum themselves up finally in terms of strength, resiliency and service.

Compare any other tire you know with a Fisk Cord—and from the Fisk see for yourselves how more rubber on the tread, stronger construction and extra resiliency make a big, good-looking, lively tire which consistently delivers much longer mileage.

Never before has there been so much long-wearing high quality at so low a price.

There's a Fisk Tire of extra value in every size, for car, truck or speed wagon

PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS IN COLLEGE LOOKING FOR WORK

This Feature Often Swings Them to a School When They Might Not Go Otherwise.

A considerable number of prospective students in the College this winter have made inquiry recently regarding the securing of work in Maryville this winter whereby they can earn a part or all of their expenses. One woman who keeps a boarding house said this morning that she has had several requests from boys to wait on the tables that she had to turn down, on account of the fact that she had her waiters picked.

The fact that students can get work in certain towns whereby they can make some money while they are going to school often brings them when otherwise they might go to some other place. The person who gives work to a College student is helping him get his education and doing a service to the College.

It is the plan to use about ten College students as employes of the state in taking care of the horses that are to be provided for Battery C of the Missouri National Guard that is being organized in Maryville.

Here For Committee Meeting

J. W. Corcoran, Democratic committeeman from Jefferson township, was in Maryville yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting of the Democratic county committee. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Eulalia Corcoran, and Miss Fannie Pfeifer.

In the recent primary election Mr. Corcoran and Gabe Purcell were rivals for the place as committeeman. Some of the voters wrote in the name "S. W. Corcoran" and some the name "William Corcoran," Mr. Corcoran being known as William Corcoran by many people. This divided the vote so that Mr. Purcell had the majority. Later the mistake was discovered and Mr. Corcoran was declared elected.

Gus Pfeifer and Earl Ryan, directors of the Conception Junction school were in town yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting for school board members, which was held at the Maryville High School building.

"FORGET-ME-NOT DAY" ADVANCED TO NOV. 4

A Special Day When All Thoughts And Activities Can be Devoted to The Needs of the Men

Cincinnati, August 30—Advancing the date of the National "Forget-Me-Not Day" from Armistice Day, to Saturday, November 4th, National Commander C. Hamilton Cook of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, who will sponsor "Forget-Me-Not Day" explained the change in date by the fact that friends of the wounded and disabled soldiers made the request that a special day be set aside, when all thoughts and activities can be devoted to the needs of the men who sacrificed much on the battlefields of France and Belgium, during the great war. Every city and town in the country is to participate in "Forget-Me-Not Day" on November 4th, Captain Cook announcing that Citizens' Committees will be formed everywhere to direct the activities of the "Day," and to have charge of the funds and their distribution. All of America's wounded and disabled veterans of the great war will be provided for in the national campaign, the proceeds of which are to be used for national legislation in behalf of the disabled veterans of the great war, clubhouses and summer camps employment and rehabilitation problems, relief work and numerous other activities in the interests of the disabled vets. Banks will act as depositories of funds secured from the sale of "Forget-Me-Nots" on November 4th.

Citizens' committees will direct the day's campaign, assisted by sub-committees of women war workers, ladies' organizations and other agencies which contributed much to the comfort of the American service men during the great war. In many cities and towns, the ladies organizations will make the paper and cloth "Forget-me-nots" that are to be distributed on November 4th; and in other localities, the bed-ridden soldier patients and disabled veterans now in hospitals, are engaged in making the flowers that will be sold on the streets of communities all over the country, on "Forget-Me-Not Day."

Preliminary arrangements have already been started in many cities for the campaign that is to benefit the cause of America's wounded and disabled veterans.

MRS. PETE PFEIFFER MAKES RECORD AS HORSETRADER

In the Absence of Her Husband, Conception Woman Drove Good Bargain Yesterday

Horsetraders, when you go by the way of Pete Pfeiffers at Conception you had better not stop unless Pete is at home, because you won't be able to make a profitable trade with Mrs. Pfeiffer. She demonstrated her ability as a horsetrader yesterday.

Mr. Pfeiffer, who is a road overseer, was away from home doing some work on the roads. Some traders came past and stopped to see if there was any trading stock on the place. Mrs. Pfeiffer told them "sure" and trotted out a horse. In a short time a trade was made, the traders leaving one of their animals and $5 to boot, taking the Pfeiffer horse along.

Mr. Pfeiffer is well pleased with the trade. He says that the horse his wife traded off was worth only about $5 and that he still has one to trade on.
